

FORECASTERS PREDICT RAIN OVER SUNDAY

Slight Relief From Heat
Not Expected; Nine
Dead In New York

MERCURY IS AT 90

Heat Causes Unusual
Amount of Insects

A prediction that showers will put in an appearance over the week-end was made Saturday by Dr. H. R. Clarke, weather observer. Although a slight rainfall is expected no immediate relief from exorbitant heat is forecast.

Saturday afternoon was a scorcher with the temperature going considerably over the 90 mark. At 11:30 a. m., the mercury had reached 90 degrees and was still moving upward. Friday afternoon's highest temperature was 88 degrees, and predictions Saturday were that this mark would be passed by two degrees and probably more. The mark fell to 86 degrees during Friday night.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Slight relief was promised eastern states today from sizzling heat which swept the Atlantic seaboard on Friday.

NINE ARE DEAD

Nine persons were dead in the New York area, where the mercury climbed to 93 degrees, one degree under the season's record.

Two men died here when they collapsed on the roofs of buildings and fell to their deaths. Two unidentified men collapsed in the street and died when removed to hospitals.

In Philadelphia the thermometer registered 97 degrees and high temperatures overwhelmed New England states today.

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 8.—The present summer, outstanding for its prolific plant and vegetable growth, its tall corn and wheat and oats, and its prospective heavy yields of fruits, has brought more than the usual number of insect pests to share in the bounteousness of nature's products, according to J. S. Houser, entomologist at the Ohio Experiment Station.

Persons who feel out of sorts because they must stop along Ohio highways to wipe accumulation of bugs from their windshields need only consider the predicament of the golf course owners, the vegetable grower or those engaged in other branches of agriculture to make their own little worries disappear.

Although increases in some forms of insects life are common in many years, Mr. Houser declares that he does not recall a year when so many destructive pests have appeared in more than ordinary numbers or in which they have wrought so much havoc.

GRASSHOPPER PLAGUE
The grasshopper plague which has hit the northwest is one which Ohio so far has largely escaped, except for the western part of the state, but there are plenty which have not missed Ohio.

"Thousands of dollars worth of onions have been destroyed by the onion thrips," Houser said. Scioto, Lodi, Orrville and Creston onion growers have had portions of their crops ruined. Entomologists are seeking a spray which will kill.

Your Duty As a Citizen

(An Editorial.)

Next Tuesday, August 11, the people of Circleville will go to the polls to select their candidates for city offices. There is no contest on the Republican ticket and the Democratic ticket offers contests for Mayor, Treasurer and Councilman in one ward.

As the primary election time draws near, it is well for the voters to look around and make themselves acquainted with the Democratic candidates and their qualifications for the offices that they are seeking.

Experience in the past has taught that many of the voters consider the primaries unimportant and do not turn out as they should to express their choice of candidates. As a matter of fact the primaries are often as important or more important than the final election.

Selection of office holders who will control the destinies of the city in the fall election can not be better nor worse than the selections expressed at the primaries, regardless of how small a majority of the eligible voters have chosen to express any choice.

It is of utmost importance at the primary election next Tuesday for the Democrats to select one man, from the four who seek the office as Mayor, who will be the strongest at the fall election.

Mayor Hedges has been severely criticized by many of the voters who helped elect him for his failure to fulfill the duties of his office. It is no benefit to a municipality for it to be commonly known that the laws are being ignored.

There is one solution to this problem and that is for the Democrats to select the strongest man, and unite in their efforts and elect him at the fall election.

This cannot be done with a majority of the eligible voters staying at home and forgetting that next Tuesday is Primary day.

Marlene Dietrich Named In Two Damage Charges

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 8.—Marlene Dietrich, who came to Hollywood from Germany to rise to stardom in the films, had today been named as "the other woman" in the difficulties involving her director, Josef Von Sternberg and his ex-wife.

In a special session of the domestic relations court, presided over by Judge Lester W. Roth, it was stated yesterday that Mrs. Von Sternberg has filed two damage suits against Miss Dietrich in New York.

It was said that Mrs. Von Sternberg demands $500,000 of the German actress for alienation of affections and $100,000 for libel.

HOOVER PLANS AID IN WINTER

Whatever Relief Is Needed For Poor Will Be Furnished,
He Asserts.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—American workers today had the assurance of President Hoover that the problem of the forthcoming winter, "whatever it may be, will be met."

The chief executive also was prompted to point out that improvement in the unemployment situation seemed promising.

The president's statement issued yesterday as he was preparing for a weekend at his Raritan river camp, declared that during the past three weeks, he and various members of the administration had studied problems of unemployment and relief likely to confront the country during the coming winter, with an aim to perfecting an organization to meet the situation.

"The first of the facts to be determined is for the probable volume of the load of distress which will need to be provided for," the president said. "The various branches of the government are engaged in an exhaustive study of last winter's experience of all organizations in the average number of persons in distress and their location."

"Further examination is being made of the probable load during next winter. The economic changes during the year will materially improve certain areas, and others may be worse. These reports are not yet complete."

TOWNSHIPS GIVEN GASOLINE MONEY

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 8.—Hard-up township treasurers all over the state received aid today when State Auditor Joseph S. Tracy distributed $401,400 in gasoline tax money.

Checks for $300 were sent to each of the state's 1338 townships.

The payment today was the third made to townships this year. The second, made in May, was for $250 only.

Officials said state gasoline tax receipts are keeping pace with last year's collections, although there, probably will be no gain shown this year.

FLYERS FIGHT FOG TO REACH POINT BARROW

More Than Half of Trip of Lindbergh and Wife

WILL GO TO NOME

Coast Guard Cutter With Fuel is Expected

POINT BARROW, Alaska, Aug. 8.—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, after being lost in a fog, arrived here from Aklavik, Northwest Territory, at 2 a. m., (Pacific Standard Time) today.

Arrival of the Tokyo-bound flyers was heralded in a message sent by Mrs. Lindbergh on the radio of the Lindbergh amphibian plane.

She said they had lost their bearings in a fog during the 536-mile journey from Aklavik.

Despite the fact that they were "lost," the Colonel and his wife made comparatively good time on their hop. Leaving Aklavik at 9:35 o'clock (Pacific Standard Time) last night, they flashed along the Alaska shoreline to this point in approximately four hours and 25 minutes.

They were greeted here by Eskimos and whites who had stayed up all night anticipating their arrival.

With the completion of the Aklavik-Point Barrow flight, the Lindberghs have covered more than half of their 7,000-mile vacation vagabondage to the Orient.

From here they will proceed to Nome, the "hopping off place" for Siberia and Japan.

The U. S. Coast Guard cutter, Northland, which carries fuel for the Lindbergh plane, is expected to arrive here soon.

Cramer Lands In Ocean Then Rises

WICK, Scotland, Aug. 8.—The first trans-Atlantic flight to be forced down at sea and then rescued, continued its journey, Parker Cramer, landed safely at an undesignated point in the Faroe Islands at 11:20 p. m., last night (8:20 p. m. E. S. T.) according to a message picked up today by the naval wireless station here.

The message came from Thorshaven, on the Faroe Island of Stromo, and it was considered probable that the plane had landed at that town, the most important in the islands.

Flying on a secret journey from Detroit to Copenhagen via the Danish islands of the north Atlantic, Cramer, with Oliver Paquette, radio operator, left Reykjavik, Iceland, for the Faroes, a distance over the water of about 500 miles, at 2:11 p. m., yesterday. He had flown to the Iceland capital across the Denmark straits from Angmagalik, Greenland, the night before, in a monoplane using crude oil for fuel instead of gasoline.

Japs will Fine American Pair

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Realizing that Hugh Herndon and Clyde Pangborn, American flyers, violated the espionage act unintentionally in flying to Japan without a permit, but wishing to uphold the country's laws, the Japanese authorities decided today to impose nominal fines on the flyers, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch received in London from Tokyo.

The authorities were especially desirous of upholding the regulations regarding flying over fortified zones. Herndon and Pangborn not only flew over numerous such places, but admitted taking photographs at various points.

'AKRON', LARGEST ZEPPELIN TO BE CHRISTENED TODAY

Mrs. Hoover Christens Giant Akron

Ceremonies attendant upon the christening of the S. S. Akron, on Saturday, August 8, at Akron, Ohio, included inflating the cells with helium, stationing the ground crew on the handling lines, and releasing the giant ship from the supports on which it was built, allowing it to rise a few feet into the air, being "air born," which is analogous to the launching of a surface ship. The climax to the dedication of the great dirigible, however, came when Mrs. Herbert Hoover released a flock of pigeons from within the ship, as part of the christening service. Photos show Mrs. Hoover, the Akron's skipper, Commander Charles E. Rosendahl (lower right), and Dr. Karl Arnstein (lower left), the German engineer who built the ship. Above is the Akron as it appeared at its christening.

AKRON, O., Aug. 8.—Her great silvery sides shimmering in the sunlight, the largest airship the world has ever known tugged majestically at the huge mooring rings in the floor of the Goodyear-Zeppelin dock here today, awaiting formal christening by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the president, this afternoon.

Mrs. Hoover, from a platform beneath the bow of the ship will pull a cord, releasing 48 racing pigeons from a hatchway high up in the dirigible's nose, christening it the United States ship Akron.

The formal christening ceremony was scheduled for 2:30 p. m. (E. S. T.), following a luncheon for the first lady at the Portage Country Club, where she was taken upon her arrival here from Washington.

IS NAVY'S DAY

It was a great day for the navy, to which branch of the service the monarch of all aircraft has been assigned. Secretary of the Navy Adams is in Europe and could not attend, but it seemed that every other navy official of note was there.

Admiral W. A. Moffett, grand old man of the navy and chief of its bureau of aeronautics, who labored tirelessly for months to get official sanction for the construction of the U. S. S. Akron and a sister ship yet to be constructed, was to accompany Mrs. Hoover aboard the special train from Washington.

More than merely supremacy in lighter-than-air fighting, equipment was symbolized by the event. In the U. S. S. Akron, second naval dirigible ever built in America, Zeppelin experts saw the forerunner of a fleet as large or even larger American dirigibles to be used in regular commercial flights across the seas.

It marked, they said, the successful completion of the first great air liner to be built through private enterprise in America.

The only other American-built dirigible, the ill-fated Shenandoah, was fabricated at the naval aircraft factory in Philadelphia and assembled at the navy dock in Lakehurst, N. J.

CONSIDERED PLAN

The navy at first considered building the Akron and its projected sister ship itself, but became convinced of the desirability of an American airship building industry, just as the nation has its own ship building industry. Such industry, naval officials reasoned, could be invaluable in time of war and lead to the establishment of commercial air lines.

Consequently, it called upon private enterprises for bids and finally awarded the contract to the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation, which began work on its 2,250,000 dollar dock at once, completing it in 1929. Soon afterward the International Zeppelin Transport company was chartered to study "aeroceanic airship travel."

German Steamship Saves
Passengers and Crew of American Boat.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 8.—Eighty seven passengers and all members of the crew of the Munipon liner Western World were rescued and taken on board the German steamship General Ozorio today a few hours after the American ship had crashed her nose on to the dangerous rock of Ponta Do Bol near Santos.

Fighting high winds and heavy seas and hampered by a blinding rain squall which at times all but obscured their vision, the officers and crew of the General Ozorio raced to the side of the stricken vessel and quickly went about the difficult task of transferring to their own ship all passengers and members of the Western World's crew.

The General Ozorio wirelessly that the transfers had been safely accomplished at about 11 a. m. (9 a. m. eastern standard time) and that she was starting for Rio de Janeiro immediately expecting to reach here tonight.

BRIT PLANE HITS POLE, NO ONE HURT

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Eighteen American and British passengers, flying from Croydon to Paris aboard the "Hannibal," the largest British airliner, had a narrow escape today when the big ship struck a telegraph pole while making an emergency landing at Tudeley.

None of the passengers was hurt and the machine was not damaged. One of the passengers described the accident, saying "one propeller broke in mid-air and flying pieces of wood damaged two other propellers, forcing the pilot to bring his plane down."

The passengers were sent on to Paris by relief planes.

TWO KILLED IN GANG WARFARE

Racketeering Feuds and Blackhand Warfare Blamed By Pittsburgh Cops.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 8.—Two men were shot to death here today in what police characterized as a renewal of racketeering feuds and blackhand warfare.

Joe Lentine, 36, was put on the spot and murdered in a lonely spot at four mile run hollow. Two shots from a sawed off shot gun crumpled Lentine to the ground. His killers escaped.

Almost simultaneously an unidentified Italian was shot to death in Sewickley cemetery. His body riddled with six bullets was believed to have been carried to the cemetery in an automobile and tossed out.

Lentine recently was released Western penitentiary where he had served a four year term in connection with the murder of Alexander De Rosa, 35. It marked the second such killing. Frank Paturo, 35, one of the witnesses to the Rose slaying was shot and killed from ambush sometime ago.

GERMANY ASKS TO BUY WHEAT

Farm Board Refuses Offer To Take Cotton; Price Is Not High Enough.

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—Following the United States farm board's refusal to accept its offer to buy 600,000 bales of American cotton at low prices on long term credit, the German government has submitted another proposal embodying an increase in price it was learned today.

Full details of the new offer were understood to have been cabled to Washington. It was not known whether they were likely to meet the objections of the farm board which declared certain phases of the earlier offer were unacceptable.

Despite reports the German government also has submitted a new offer to buy large quantities of wheat, authoritative spokesmen declared. "The grain situation was unchanged. An offer was said to have been made for wheat sometime ago but was not accepted definitely."

They were named to police on Friday by a eyewitness to the shootings who occurred when gangsters sought to murder a rival with gunfire from an automobile.

Joseph Muscato, 20, was said to have given police information on which they expect immediate arrests. Muscato partially confirmed an early story of the shootings told by Anthony Trabino, 21, who claimed he was the intended victim of the gangsters.

SOUL REST

In these vacation times when much attention is being given to relaxation of body and mind, it is wise to give a thought to one's spiritual welfare.

Public worship creates a restful and confident atmosphere which lifts the harassed business man out of his cares and worries. The spiritual atmosphere is entirely different from the routine and friction of daily life.

The church seems an oasis of spiritual refreshment where tired nerves are relaxed and worn minds are refreshed; where gloom is dispelled, heavy hearts lightened and burdens cast aside.

The spiritual refreshment is as necessary for soul life as a refreshing rain is necessary for vegetation. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

Saul Converted and Commissioned, Acts 9:1-19; I Timothy 1:12-14 for Sunday, August 9.

The young man that stood by the clothes at the stoning of Stephen here reappears in the narrative and undergoes his marvelous transformation. Black carbon may become white diamond by the simple rearrangement of its atoms; and Saul, the great persecutor of the gospel, its greatest preacher.

V. 1. "But Saul, yet breathing threatening and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high priest and asked of him a letter to Damascus unto the synagogues, that if he found any that were of the way, whether men or women, he might bring them bound to Jerusalem." Evidently Saul had carried out his program of persecution so perfectly that he now sought new fields and considered Damascus, the place where more persecutions might be made. The wiping out of Christianity was his program sparing neither women nor men who "were of the Way." If Christianity be simply a matter of physical power, Paul would have won.

Vs. 3, 4. "And as he journeyed, it came to pass that he drew nigh unto Damascus; and suddenly there shone around about him a light of heaven; and he fell upon the earth and heard a voice saying unto him, Saul, why persecutest thou me?" Here is something supernatural: reason cannot explain the light and the voice; the many great truths must be accepted, waiting for explanations to be made later. Every time a child of God is persecuted the Lord is also persecuted.

Vs. 5, 6. "And he said, who art thou, Lord? And he said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest; but arise and enter into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do." Saul asked an important question honestly. The answer best suited for him was given promptly. The highest education is wanting if it lacks knowledge of the Lord. Efforts are necessary to the knowledge of Christ's fuller revelation. Service is gradually given. Duty is gradually shown. Do the thing that is demanded now and out of that the vision shall emerge.

V. 7. "And the men that journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing the voice, but beholding no man." These men may have heard a noise, but they could not understand it. Real hearing is understanding. Many have ears but they hear not.

V. 8. "And Saul arose from the earth; and when his eyes were opened, he saw nothing; and they led him by the hand and brought him unto Damascus." Here are more facts of the supernatural-being blind for three days. It may have been the best way for Saul to meditate deeply and let his eyes of faith receive the spiritual light that was shining. It is a good thing for all men to have moments of quiet when truths of God may burst into the soul.

V. 17. "And Ananias departed and entered into the house; and laying his hands on him said, brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus, who appeared unto thee in the way which thou camest, hath sent me, that thou mayest receive thy sight and be filled with the Holy Spirit." Ananias, one of God's men also had a vision and heard a voice which accounts for the meeting with Saul. God's plan is to use men in reaching men. The conversion of the world depends largely on the willingness of his followers to furnish the ways and means in person and support of the gospel messengers and message.

V. 18. "And straightway there fell from his eyes as it were scales and he received his sight and he arose and was baptized." The Holy Spirit now came upon Saul and his conversion was so complete that there was a corresponding restoration of his physical sight. His confession was so public that he would not stop short of Christian baptism.

V. 19. "And he took food and was strengthened. And he was certain days with the disciples that were at Jerusalem." Our physical habits for health and strength are essential in order that strength may be given for Christian service.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. What is conversion?

2. What are the evidences of a true conversion?

3. How may a "good person" be converted?

4. What are the things in Saul's conversion that are the same as ours?

5. Why do men need to be converted?

7. To what extent are we responsible for our own conversion?

Clericus says, "Conversion does not clear up all difficulties. It usually makes plain only a few steps which will lead us into more light. Saul took these steps, he arose from the earth and went into the city—having this fact established. Jesus was his Lord and his purpose was to trust and follow Him."

Lesson Prayer. "We pray for such a clear conversion that the crucified Lord may be seen as our Lord and that our wills may be set on exalting Him in life and service."

thou, Lord? And he said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest; but arise and enter into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do." Saul asked an important question honestly. The answer best suited for him was given promptly. The highest education is wanting if it lacks knowledge of the Lord. Efforts are necessary to the knowledge of Christ's fuller revelation. Service is gradually given. Duty is gradually shown. Do the thing that is demanded now and out of that the vision shall emerge.

V. 7. "And the men that journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing the voice, but beholding no man." These men may have heard a noise, but they could not understand it. Real hearing is understanding. Many have ears but they hear not.

V. 8. "And Saul arose from the earth; and when his eyes were opened, he saw nothing; and they led him by the hand and brought him unto Damascus." Here are more facts of the supernatural-being blind for three days. It may have been the best way for Saul to meditate deeply and let his eyes of faith receive the spiritual light that was shining. It is a good thing for all men to have moments of quiet when truths of God may burst into the soul.

V. 17. "And Ananias departed and entered into the house; and laying his hands on him said, brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus, who appeared unto thee in the way which thou camest, hath sent me, that thou mayest receive thy sight and be filled with the Holy Spirit." Ananias, one of God's men also had a vision and heard a voice which accounts for the meeting with Saul. God's plan is to use men in reaching men. The conversion of the world depends largely on the willingness of his followers to furnish the ways and means in person and support of the gospel messengers and message.

V. 18. "And straightway there fell from his eyes as it were scales and he received his sight and he arose and was baptized." The Holy Spirit now came upon Saul and his conversion was so complete that there was a corresponding restoration of his physical sight. His confession was so public that he would not stop short of Christian baptism.

V. 19. "And he took food and was strengthened. And he was certain days with the disciples that were at Jerusalem." Our physical habits for health and strength are essential in order that strength may be given for Christian service.

What can be done to get more people to unite with the churches?

The Biblical Review in considering these questions states that the real question should be, What kind of a church are the people urged to join? What is the church offering that the world does not offer? Entertainment, music, social life, informing address, high standards of ethics, are all being supplied from worldly sources. What else, then, has the church? Moreover, what is there about the average church member's life and conversation to lead an outsider to feel that he is missing something essential to his peace, comfort and hope?

From the beginning, it has been the very difference between the truly Christian group and the world that has made this or that denomination grow in power and influence and also in numbers. The great evangelical bodies that are prospering today do not owe their growth to furnishing finer

The Need for Busy People. So frequently we hear the excuse "Oh, I'm too busy for that—get some one else to do it who has nothing else to do." And yet it is always the busy people who are in demand. God always called the busy folks as the following examples illustrate:

Moses was busy with his flock at Horeb when God called him; Gideon was busy threshing wheat by the press; Saul was busy searching for his father's lost beasts; David was busy caring for his sheep; Elisha was busy ploughing; Amos was busy following the flock; Nehemiah was busy bearing the king's wine cup; Peter and Andrew were busy fishing; James and John were busy mending their nets; Matthew was busy collecting customs; Paul was busy persecuting the friends of Jesus.

Vlerebome Too Tough For Columbus Team

George Vlerebome pitched the greatest recreation ball he ever produced Friday evening at Utilities field and the Helvering & Scharenberg Clites Service Oil team turned back the Columbus Clites Service outfit. One hit was gleaned from Vlerebome's pitches, that a line single into right field by Williams, Columbus pitcher, after two were out in the third inning. Only one runner reached second base that on an overthrow in the fifth. These were the only two men to reach base! The final score of the contest was 3 to 0.

While Vlerebome was pitching his great ball, Williams on the Columbus team, was doing no bad piece of work himself. He was touched safely eight times but fanned seven men, retiring the side by the strike-out route in the second frame. Starting his delivery almost on the ground Williams shot the ball at the batter on such an angle that when it reached the plate it was rising. It was quite a while before the Oil-men could fathom his offerings but when they did they scored enough runs to win.

The first local man to reach the paths was Merriman leading off in the fourth when he connected for a hard single through shortstop. Vlerebome followed with a single to right field but when Merriman tried to go to third he was thrown out, Vlerebome going to second. He took third on a pass ball as Geib fanned out crossed the plate on Mettler's hard smash into left field.

The final Oil runs came over in the sixth frame when Merriman, Vlerebome and Geib singled in succession, Merriman going over on Geib's single. Mettler reached first base, and Vlerebome scored on Kline's fielding single.

The fielding of Merriman at shortstop and Kline at second base for the local teams featured the defensive side of the ball game.

The victory Friday evening evens the score with the Columbus nine who won in that city by a 2-1 score several weeks ago.

'BOOTSIE,' PAULINO MEET IN BIG TOWN

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Primo Carnera vs. Paulino Uzcudun on September 3 at the Yankee stadium for the benefit of the Bronx cancer hospital.

This bout was tentatively announced yesterday and a final decision will be reached this Monday at a conference between Secretary of State Edward Flynn and William Carey of Madison Square Garden.

Carnera plans to start training at Orangeburg on Monday, and will notify the Garden he is ready to fulfill his contract to meet Max Schmeling. At the same time, he has accepted a date with Jack Sharkey at Ebbets Field on September 22, a week after his match with Maxie is supposed to take place.

Other games next week will see the Red Men and Grocers meeting Tuesday evening, the Circleville Oils and Grocers tangling Wednesday evening, and the Coca Colas and Red Men Thursday evening.

REC SCHEDULE

With efforts of three other recreation ball teams bent on stopping the Grocers, who apparently are on their way to a second half championship, only four weeks of the recreation season remain. Another week's schedule will begin Monday when Circleville Oils and Coca Colas tangle.

ALL-STARS TAKE GAME

Carl Purcell's Outfit Goss To Commercial Point to Beat Lockbourne.

The Circleville All-Stars, organized and captained by Carl Purcell, handed the Lockbourne Pirates a defeat of 9-0 in a recreation ball contest played at Commercial Point Friday afternoon.

This event was a part of the contests scheduled for the Scioto-rwp homecoming which was held in Commercial Point.

Pud Oliver and Ray Smith played part-time on the mound for the locals, allowing but few hits. The local gang chalked up eight hits of which Dumm and Purcell were responsible for seven. The other hit included a home run by Ray Smith.

J. Heiskell and Joe Thomas substituted for Hickey and Davis.

The same team will go to Portsmouth Sunday to meet a recreation ball team there.

KLEIN SOCKS 2 ON GIANTS

McGrawmen Lose Third In Row; Bureleigh Grimes Blanks Chi Cubs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Reports that Chuck Klein, the big hit and Jog-around gent from Philadelphia, had injured the thumb on his batting hand and would be out of the home run chase for the rest of the year, were entirely discounted today.

Chuck made sport of some of John McGraw's pitching talent by introducing his home run nos. 25 and 26 as the New York Giants fell apart before the Phillies, 13 to 5.

It was the second straight beating administered to the proud, pennant-aspiring Giants by the de-lasse Phils and the third flop in a row for the house of McGraw. New York outbit the enemy but played ragged ball, offering a defense such as Switzerland might produce in a skirmish at sea.

Bureleigh Grimes, the St. Louis Cardinals, who threatens to punch newspapermen who write unkindly of his efforts, will not have to lick anyone for a couple of days. Lord Bureleigh did quite well, thank you, humbling the Chicago Cubs 8 to 0. Grimes struck out five and gave only eight spaced safeties. Good work, old pal.

Mr. Lucas acted as though he had an elevator beneath him as he went up in the first inning of the Cincinnati-Pittsburgh tilt.

He was replaced by Carroll after getting smacked for six hits and Carroll was just as bad, the Bucs chalking seven runs in the stanza. The final count was Pittsburgh 9, Cincy Reds 3. Traynor gobbled four hits.

Urbanski put the skids under the Brooklyn Robins, socking a healthy double off relief hurler Quinn in the ninth inning to give the Boston Braves a 3 to 2 triumph. Babe Herman hastened the flock's sad end by miffing a couple of important fly balls.

Some of those advertisers who feature folks past 40 without a wrinkle, much less a pain in the neck, probably will be seeing Urban Farber of the Chicago White Sox about posing for 'em. Maybe it will turn out Urban has been eating yeast. Anyway, he had his tomato juice yesterday, for he surmounted his 43 summers and refused to give the St. Louis Browns more than five hits. He struck out two, did not walk a soul and had his spit-ball shrouded in considerable mystery. The result was Chicago 2 and St. Louis 0.

Farber has won six games and lost eight this season, which isn't bad considering the Sox are the Sox.

Other teams in the American league were not scheduled.

Alibis
ONE of the first things a good sportsman should learn is the preparation of an alibi. Grace, agility, endurance, training, skill, are all very well in actual competition, but at the conclusion of the contest they are useless, whereas an alibi serves not only before a match but also during it and so long afterward as the match is a topic of discussion.

Alibis may be classified as animate and inanimate, while the inanimate are capable of subdivision into mental and physical. Inanimate alibi include such objects as tennis nets that are too high or too low, warped golf clubs and the phenomena of nature such as heat or cold, breeze or absence of breeze, sunlight and haze, too much rain or too little rain and uneven surfaces.

There may be rare instances in which inanimate alibis are lacking. In such case resource may be had to the animate. Almost any bodily ailment will do, such as a blister on the finger, or a toothache, eyestrain, a sharp-shooting pain in the back, a weak ankle, joint that is easily thrown out, torn ligament, general lethargy brought on by failure to sleep well the night previous, or cramps resulting from the fact that "you must have eaten something."

Mental alibis, such as the receipt of a depressing telegram, are more difficult to arrange, entail expenses, and consequently are less frequent; but they cannot be ignored. In fact, with all the alibis available, little sympathy is due the sportsman who takes the field without one. Should he fail to take the precaution upon the off chance of winning, he should realize that he does so at his own risk and has only himself to blame.

With a reasonable alibi in hand the best of sportsmen may experience defeat, but he need never know its bitterness. He has the everlasting consolation that if things had not been what were the result would not be what it is.

Warning
ALARMED by the increasing number of highway fatalities and convinced that excessive speeding is responsible, Connecticut's motor vehicle commissioner is holding the threat of sure-fire repressive measures over the speed-maniacs who ignore his pleas to slow down.

It is a real threat that he holds over the fast and furious—the threat of a compulsory speed-governor for every motor vehicle or a recording speedometer which prints a permanent record of every mile covered that speed cops may read and act accordingly. Either device would be harder to beat than the present method of arrest on sight.

Such drastic steps will be taken by no state except as a last resort, since legislators are also motorists and often speeders. But legislative history is packed with instances where the last resort has been resorted to.

Nicaragua Canal
WASHINGTON will file for future reference the report of Lieutenant Colonel Sultan, of the army engineers, on the Nicaragua canal project. The time is not propitious for anything else.

"MAKE-BELIEVE" by FAITH BALDWIN

Copyright, 1930, by Faith Baldwin Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Pretty Mary Lou Thurston pretends she is Delight Harford to help Travers Lorrimor, shell-shocked son of the wealthy Margaret Lorrimor, regain his health. Travers had mistaken Mary Lou for Delight, whom he is supposed to have married in England. No trace can be found of Delight. Travers agrees to start all over with friendship. Months of happy companionship follow with Travers more in love with Delight than ever. At Christmas he presents Mary Lou with a sapphire ring referring to her not wearing the "real" ring. This leads Mary Lou to believe that he really married Delight, using a seal ring. Mary Lou loves Travers and finds deception hard. Travers and Mary Lou visit friends in Florida. Mrs. Lorrimor breaks her arm and they are called home.

CHAPTER XXXII.
MARY Lou folded the telegram neatly, with fingers which shook. She couldn't bear to have anything happen to Margaret Lorrimor. She was sane enough to realize that a broken arm, in itself, was not serious, but she knew the weakened state of Margaret's heart. She went at once to find Lorrimor, who had gone in advance of the Wynnes' luncheon that noon, to Bradley's, with several other men, to watch the gaming tables and, perhaps to play a little.

They had recently come in from swimming. Mary Lou's hair was still damp and curled tightly about her pale face. She met Mrs. Wynne and Jenny on the way out the door, told them briefly, and ran, hatless, the very short distance to the club.

Another Victory
She sent a servant in for Lorrimor, and when he came out she found that, despite her wish not to worry him and to be calm, she was shaking all over.

"What is it, dear?" he asked instantly. She pulled herself together. "Your mother has broken her arm," she said, "and Dr. Matthews wants us to come home at once." He took the wire from her clenched fingers and read it. His eyes clouded with instant anxiety, but he said, quite steadily: "Don't worry so. She'll be all right. We'll get the train out tonight."

They had been flying two hours when Lorrimor turned to her. He was very pale, but his eyes were normal, and he managed to smile. Two hours, of almost abject terror, of a sense of sinking, a faintness, a will to cry out that he couldn't go on, he couldn't—but terror which diminished, and faintness which passed, and a will which strengthened itself at last.

He touched her hand, almost timidly, and she turned. "I've been a fool," was all he said.

Mind Over Matter.
When they reached New York, having saved many hours, he was cured, cured for all time of that old terror, that backwash of his crash, of his bitter experiences.

Having wired Westwood House, they were met by a car at the landing field and hurried out to the house. In the car, Lorrimor, for the first time in her experience of him, talked his heart out, told all the fears which had gnawed at him, the memories which had sickened him—all gone now. He was healed.

"We'll have a plane!" he promised. "You'll let me learn to fly?" she asked, deep in her role, forgetting that she had no right to ask, he no right to give permission. But the little question moved him profoundly, filled him with a blazing hope.

Even her aunt and uncle had written her, from the far off and incredible isolation of their oriental jungle, under that name, written bold and black in Clara's hand. But in the letter itself her own name occurred.

Mary Lou, are you crazy? If I weren't so tied up here, I'd come home at once and take you away from that place. It all sounds completely mad to me.

Mary Lou had written Clara often, since her first letter, had explained and re-explained, in order to justify to Clara's shrewd and astonished eyes her "job."

Lately the weekly letters had sent, always written with complete news of Billy, obtained over the telephone, or by a flying trip out to see that young man, those letters had ceased to justify anything, and had become rather reticent, so that Clara, wise woman, had announced to her weary husband that it looked very much as if Mary Lou's heart were beginning to be involved in that same "job."

To which her tired and weary husband generally grunted a preoccupied husbandly assent. Not that he didn't care a lot for Mary Lou, but he was pretty busy building a railroad at the ends of the earth, was Howard. People thought Mary Lou, some times disconsolately, had about forgotten that Mary Lou Thurston had ever existed. What it was that she was, she didn't know, but she was a name and its attached personality could so quickly be swallowed up in a game of make-believe.

Include Cod-Liver Oil In Baby's Daily Diet

Its Health-Giving and Strengthening Qualities Are Known to Authorities Who Recommend Its Use Beginning with the Second Week of Life

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

It is now an accepted fact most babies will benefit if cod-liver oil is given regularly before the end of the first month of life. In fact, it has been recommended by many authorities that the use of cod-liver oil should begin by the end of the second week.

Rickets is, as a rule, a condition that starts early, in the first months of life. It appears when the baby is growing most rapidly. Unfortunately, it may not be recognized until quite late, indeed not until weakness of the muscles and deformity of the bones become conspicuous. It is a condition that may occur in breast-fed, as well as in artificially fed, babies. Babies with rickets become restless, irritable, pale and constipated.

At the Cliftona Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA
Professional gamblers mingled in perfect amity with police officers and court attaches when they came together as a band of technical experts in Norma Shearer's new starring picture, "A Free Soul," which will be seen commencing Sunday at the Cliftona Theatre.

The officials were there to furnish authentic technical detail in the courtroom scenes, and some even acted in them. The gamblers, recruited from famous gambling establishments in locales where gambling is legal, dealt favor, blackjack, roulette, and other games.

The new picture is a filmization of Adela Rogers St. John's novel of San Francisco. Miss Shearer plays the role of the headstrong girl torn between the love of a gambler and a society man, and Lionel Barrymore, her lawyer father, who bares his own sins in court to save the happiness of his daughter.

Leslie Howard, Clark Gable, James Gleason and Lucy Beaumont have important supporting roles.

The Hollywood Vanities at the Cliftona are everything that the advance publicity claimed and possibly a little bit more. We understand a Columbus man is really behind the whole production, in fact, it is said that he staked the entire show, including music, dances, songs and the lavish display of scenic embellishments. When you learn that Mr. Hardgrove, yes, that's who it is, John Hardgrove, although still in his middle twenties can look back on a wide and varied experience in the theatrical profession.

Starting as a dancer in the Minstrel shows, he has since displayed his talents in most every branch of the theatre, including George White's Scandals and Irving Berlin's Music Box Revue. Then to the major vaudeville circuits and

PULLING CONTEST AT STATE'S FAIR
COLUMBUS.—"Fifteen hundred dollars will be paid in cash prizes by the Ohio State Fair, and in addition the Horse Association of America, Union Stock Yards, Chicago, will award gold, silver and bronze medals appropriately engraved and mounted as watch fobs to the drivers of the five highest ranking teams in each class." Charles M. Peer, State Fair Manager, announced today.
"Teams will not be allowed to compete in these classes unless they have established records in contests where the dynamometer was used." Pairs under 3,000 pounds must have records of 2,000 pounds tractive pull or over; pairs weighing 3,000 pounds and up, must have records of 2,600 pounds tractive pull or over.
Prizes will range from $150 to $25 for pairs under 3,000 pounds.
Eight awards totaling $800 will be given in this class. Pairs weighing 3,000 pounds and up will have a total purse of $900; only seven places ranging from $200 to $75 will be given.
If a new world's record is established in either class, $100 additional prize money will be paid to the pair making such new record, and a special gold medal emblematic of the new record, will be awarded to the owner of such team.
Rules laid down by the Horse Association of America which govern all pulling contests throughout the world will control. Wayne Dinamore, Secretary of the Horse Association of America will personally supervise the contest and will be the final authority on the pulls.
The dynamometers will be used.
Entries must be in by Saturday, Aug. 29, and the horses or mules competing must be on the grounds in time for measurement and weighing on Monday, Aug. 31. Owners are charged with responsibility of having the competing teams at the scales west of the "feeding cattle" barns at 10 a. m. Monday. All teams will be measured and weighed at that time and place.
Pairs under 3,000 pounds pull at 9 a. m. Tuesday, Sept. 1; pairs weighing 3,000 pounds and over pull at 9 a. m. Wednesday, Sept. 2, 1931.
An ideal piece of blue grass turf has been set aside for the contest and will be given special care all summer. It is across the race track from the grand stand which seats 6,000 people, and additional seats will be provided for 6,000 more, east of the turf course, so that good seating accommodations will be available for 11,000 persons.

Wearing a crown of silver, the young Princess Ileana, of Rumania, became the bride of Archduke Anton of Hapsburg, at a brilliant ceremony in the historic palace of Sinaia, the Summer home of the Rumanian royal family. Here's the wedding party just before the ceremony. the thrips without harming the onions. The spray must kill through contact with the worm's body.

The sod bed worms are doing great damage to lawns, golf course greens and fairway and sods in general. The pests eat the blades of grass off just at the surface, and its havoc resembles that when "brown spot" attacks the lawn.

The Hessian fly, known as the most hardy attacker of that grain, increased fully one hundred per cent in Ohio this year. The egg laying time of this insect has been determined, and it can be largely overcome by observing proper sowing dates for wheat.

The seventeen year locust has visited many parts of the state.

Another pest which it was thought had been well-nigh conquered has returned like an invading army this year. It is the Colorado beetle, more commonly known as the potato bug. Its sudden and unexpected return has practically ruined many potato fields, particularly in regions where rains have been scarce.

Gladioli growers are fighting a beetle known as Gladioli thrips. Northern Ohio in particular is infested with it.

Fruit growers are fighting the codling moth and the Oriental fruit moth. The former makes apples "wormy."

The chinch bug and the army worm are other pests causing more than ordinary damage.

The drouth of last year may have had something to do with this year's heavy infestation of insects, Houser believes. They attacked weakened plants and trees and increased in numbers for their more intensive invasion this year.

Dr. Houser, while not inclined to be pessimistic, said that insects had made a decided gain in the last year, and that a corresponding increase for several seasons would seriously menace the nation's food supply.

DEMOCRATS

Nominate a Man Next Tuesday You Can Elect in November

VOTE FOR ...

Geo. M. Fitzpatrick

For Mayor

WHAT I STAND FOR

In presenting my candidacy to you it is not necessary to dwell on the platform on which I stand, as I believe my record and rendition of matters brought before me in the past is testimony enough to merit your approval. But I want here to mention a few very important matters.

I believe the Mayor should enforce ALL the laws of the city and should serve the whole people, not just a clique or class.

I have always been a consistent advocate of economy in government. I do not favor penny-wise or pound-foolish policies, but I do advocate sane and sensible public financing. Waste and mismanagement has existed in the Service Department of the city for some time; the Safety Department has not functioned properly; the Board of Health has been "a one-man-board" for a few years, seldom ever meeting to discuss the sanitary or health conditions of the city.

The patronage or work in the Service Department has been handed to a few favorites. Why not pass the jobs around so as to give all our laborers a part of the work.

THESE THINGS SHOULD CHANGE

Should I receive the nomination for Mayor in August and be elected in November, I promise to conduct the affairs of the office according to the laws of the State of Ohio and the ordinances of the city. The city will be made and kept free from immoral conditions and it will be my endeavor to encourage and cooperate in all things which will tend to make Circleville a cleaner, bigger and better Circleville.

I want to serve you as Mayor of the coming term and ask your support and influence, and will do my utmost to give to the city an efficient and economical administration.

If you my voting friends, approve of an administration of this character, go to the polls on Tuesday next and cast your ballot accordingly, for which I thank you.

Sincerely yours,

GEO. M. FITZPATRICK.

Isn't EXPERIENCE and EFFICIENCY Worth Something To You?
